

Marengo Museum

Category: Museum

business description: On 14 June 1800, Napoleon Bonaparte wins one of his most important battles in Marengo, remembered also at the Arc de Triomphe of Paris.

The Museum is at the centre of the battlefield, close to the village of Marengo, in a Villa built in 1847 as a monument to the Emperor. The mural paintings on the ceilings represent important moments and places of Napoleon's life.

The story of the battle is experienced through videos, maps, graphic works, display cases with weapons and objects, mannequins in vintage uniforms and films.

From 14 June to 18 August 2024 the Museum of Marengo will exhibit original works of the great Guido Crepax, a master of comics and illustration from Milan. On show will be the wargame LA BATTAGLIA DI MARENGO (the Battle of Marengo) with the board game field of the late 1950s /early 1960s painted by hand with respective armies of 200 cardboard soldiers cut out and painted by hand and used as pawns.
